If you do not know, it is possible to get free access to thousands of online TV channels by installing software from your computer or without any equipment other than any other equipment other than web browser and internet connection. This software is not complicated as it only provides TV channel work lists and search or filtration features. However, you will need media players like Windows Media Player or RealPlayer to transfer videos to your computer. If you are looking on the Internet, you will find many programs claiming to watch thousands of TV channels. Computer. After testing such software more than a dozen, the software receives channels that do not work in two and employees mainly require paid licenses. We have checked and compiled a list of 5 programs you can watch TV from your computer. 1. JLC Internet TV is our favorite. Although many channels are not actively updated, they are still running and running. All insidious advertising does not require installation and, in most cases, is cleaned during installation. After installation, first running JLC Internet TV will be offered to download the latest channel list. When we checked, there were 2,697 channels, and useful information, such as rating, language, bit transmission speed, category, channel name and national channel list, is very useful. The filter and search feature make it easy to purchase the channels of interest. The only small problem we were facing was the old installation version. Check the update again to update the latest version to 1.2.1 with an improved channel list and error corrections. Readon TV Movie Radio Player Readon TV Player is one of our favorite because it has not only its own channel lists, including live broadcasts, but also supports third-party TV and radio services such as Sopcast, ShoutCast TV, YouTube and PPStream. It just saves more than full TV player software. A flow plugin that can also be easily installed via the plugins menu. Channels can be filtered by land, genre or favorites, and there is also a search function. This only works under Windows. Download Readon TV Movie Radio Player3. SOPCASTSOPCAST uses a unique P2P broadcast technology to transmit channels. There are not many channels, but some of them, such as HBO and Disney Junior, are on the list. To use SOPCAST, start the program and you can register anonymously or with your account. Go to the live channel card and double-click on the channels you want to transfer. SOPCAST can also stream video or audio, but requires an account registration that can be created free of charge. Supports Windows, Linux, Mac and Android devices. During the installation process, the ASK characters are displayed for installation. Make sure you select the custom installation and deactivate both check boxes before clicking on the "Install" button. Download SOPCAST4. Tvuplayer from TVU Networks has been offering free TV since 2005. You can sort channels by categories and languages and search for keywords. A very useful information that is displayed when you drive with the mouse via channels is the bandwidth and signal strength display, thanks to which you have a better chance of selecting the video channel that is sent from the stream without having to tap at any time. TVUPlayer works under Windows and Mac. Download tvuplayer5. ITEJ Online TV Player 2 version of the free and professional online TV player. The paid version contains more channels, but according to what we see in the canal list, the free version already contains over a hundred channels. The channels are sorted by countries in the tree and can be filtered according to any combinations of bandwidth, libraries or land. There is also a search function with which you can find the name of the channel you want to see. The bit rate is also displayed if a higher thematic transmission means better quality, but requires a faster connection to the stream. The graphical user interface looks somewhat outdated, but we assure you that the channels are still working. Download TV Online How to create infographics ... .. Skopzen S.1. Your digital life.
